Central Ohio Lashed by Strong Winds and Heavy Rains

DAYTON, May 2, —(AP)—Hard rains and high winds buffeted the Dayton-Springfield area last night, unroofing several houses, toppling trees, interrupting power service and damaging 10 airplanes at two private fields in Springfield.

Wind velocity reached 55 miles an hour in Dayton, with gusts 10 miles an hour faster. Damage was largely in the suburban area, with Mad River Township east of the city hit hardest.

At Springfield a gust of wind hurled the roof of a cottage 50 feet.

Mrs. Mary Wiegel and her eighty-year-old grandmother, Jeanette, the occupants, were unhurt. Roofs of several other houses and a number of Clark County barns were damaged extensively.

The Crabill airport and the Jirelle-Neer Skyways, Inc., private airport near Springfield each reported five planes damaged by the storm. Reuville Giffin, 29, suffered a head cut and possible internal injuries from a runaway plane at the Crabill field.

A falling tree crushed the moving automobile of A. T. Smith near Springfield, but he escaped injury.

Two 18-year-old Pittsburgh boys, John Setten and William Karjovic, were ducked in the Ohio River when their canoe capsized during the windstorm late yesterday. Setten swam to shore and Lester Bailey, caretaker at a nearby boat harbor, rescued Karjovic.

In Columbus 44 inches of rain in the 24 hours preceding 4:30 P.

M. yesterday was reported by Weatherman George Mindling. Central Ohio, said Mindling, had the fourth wettest April in the Columbus' bureau's history last month, and the bureau opened in 1879. There was 5.30 inches of rainfall against an average of 2.87 and the all-time record of 7.08 in 1893. In 1945, however, rainfall was 5.52 inches.

Last month also was central Ohio's first snowless April since 1941 and the fourth April without snow in 63 years, Mindling added.

Rent Control Extender Gets OK of House

'Local Option' Clauses in Bill Sent To Senate for Final Action; Material Restrictions Cut Out

By FRANCIS M. LEMAY

WASHINGTON, May 2—(AP)—A house-passed bill extending rent control, but letting each city, town and county decide whether to take it or leave it, was tossed over to the senate today.

(Rep. Clarence Brown, who represents Fayette County, voted against the bill).

The "local option" feature immediately got a friendly reception there.

The house approved the measure 204 to 182 last night, after beating down attempts to require a 10 percent rent increase where ceilings now apply.

Modified in several ways that are not to President Truman's liking, the bill provides:

1. Continuation of controls from June 30 to December 31, with the president given authority to continue them by proclamation to March 31, 1948, if he deems this advisable. Mr. Truman asked for extension of controls in their present form until June 30, 1948.

2. That "the governing body in any county, city or town may in their discretion terminate rent control earlier by a finding that the necessity therefor no longer exists." This amendment, by Rep. Redden (D-NC) was adopted by a vote of 129 to 84. It would not apply to state rent control laws.

3. Authorizes landlords to raise rents 15 percent in return for a two-year lease if the tenant agrees.

4. Exempts from ceilings all new houses and apartments and any that have not been rented in the last two years.

5. Abolishes all government priority and allocation controls over building materials and construction under the veterans housing act, except that the government may require a permit for construction of buildings to be used for amusement or recreational purposes.

6. Retains veterans preferences to buy or rent new homes and continues government mortgage insurance on new homes up to 10 of value.

Even before the measure formally arrived in the senate, the Republican whip, Senator Wherry of Nebraska, told reporters "I especially like the local option idea."

And Senator Capehart (R-Ind) commented: "Generally speaking, the house bill is about the best that can be had at the moment. It is quite satisfactory."

But Wherry, whose job as whip charges him with keeping party members in line on important legislative tests, said it may be late this month or early next before the senate gets around to acting on a rent bill.

Baby Survives Train Wreck

HUNTINGTON, Pa., May 2—(AP)—Five persons were dead today, and six remained in critical condition from the second freight train disaster within a month.

Forty-five others were injured as the Pennsylvania Railroad's New York-St. Louis flyer, The American, jolted into sheet steel jutting from a moving freight four miles west of Huntington in the pre-dawn hours yesterday.

Meanwhile a two-week-old infant, daughter of one of the victims of the American wreck, tossed restlessly in her crib at J. C. Blair Memorial Hospital here, suffering a leg fracture and head bruises.

Through most of the day yesterday little Penelope Sims lay quietly in her crib but occasionally her crying was broken by a frightened little cry. Her condition was listed as good.

Mine Being Sealed

TERRE HAUTE, Ind., May 2—(AP)—Workmen began today the grim task of sealing off a fire in Spring Hill Mine, scene of an explosion Wednesday in which eight men were killed.

AN AGILE burglar, according to C. Melkin Arslanian (above), forced his way into his tree-top home (right) in West Orange, N. J., and stole several books, two alarm clocks and a deer skin. Rug dealer Arslanian, who has lived in his exclusive abode for a good number of years, told police that the intruder probably made his way up a ladder that rests at the foot of the tree while he is away. ## Jewish Voice At UN Urged By Britain

By MAX HARRELSON

NEW YORK, May 2—(AP)—Britain declared today that Jews should be given a voice in the United Nations debate on Palestine if any legal means could be found to provide a hearing for them.

The first official British views on this delicate problem were expressed by Sir Alexander Cadogan to newsmen just before the general assembly's 14-nation steering committee began discussion of Jewish demands for representation at this extraordinary session.

Cadogan said that in view of the fact that Arab states had entered into a full debate of the Palestine question the Jews should be heard if it was "constitutionally feasible." He declined to say whether he believed this was possible or, if so, how it could be done.

Despite Cadogan's endorsement of the general idea of hearing the Jews, there remained a possibility that Britain and the United States might split over the type of representation to be given.

Student Creates Scene in Church

NEW YORK, May 2—(AP)—A 26-year-old university student, with a May Day button in lapel and a cigarette dangling from his lips, leaped the altar rail of a Catholic Church last night and jibed at a priest conducting services.

Police identified the man as Henry Berfield, of Puyallup, Wash., who said he was a student of law and government at Columbia University.

Berfield was taken to night court where he pleaded guilty to disorderly conduct and was held in $500 bail pending sentence Thursday.

"I do not believe in the doctrines of Catholicism," he told Magistrate Edward Thompson. He added that though reared as a Catholic he held no religious beliefs.

Warship Salutes At Dardanelles

ISTANBUL, May 2—(AP)—Guns of American and Turkish warships thundered salutes in the historic Dardanelles today as four U. S. vessels arrived for a four-day visit to Turkey.

The American forces were led by the 27,000-ton J. S. S. Leyte, first aircraft carrier to pass through the Strait. Turks Rowe, sailed and motored in small boats to get a close look at the ships which also included the light cruiser Dayton and the destroyers Purdy and Bristol.

Milk Price Cut

TIFFIN, May 2—(AP)—Local milk prices will be reduced one cent to 17 cents a quart tomorrow, with a corresponding drop in prices of other milk products.

Mexico President On New York Visit

Appeal for American Solidarity To Preserve World Peace Made

NEW YORK, May 2—(AP)—President Miguel Aleman of Mexico declared today that strengthening of the western hemispheric solidarity is "the first step we must take in the furtherance of the ends" pursued by the United Nations.

Speaking from city hall where Mayor William O'Dwyer conferred on him following a parade through rain-swept downtown Manhattan streets, President Aleman asserted:

"Mexico's contributions to the work of the United Nations has been heartfelt and generous. But Mexico believes that the first step we must take in the furtherance of the ends pursued by that organization is to uphold hemispheric solidarity strengthening the ties that bind the American republics together."

Stressing Mexico's kinship with the United States, he said, "let us remember that our countries are united by the similarity of their institutions and their common love of freedom rather than (Please Turn to Page Two)"

Funds Assured For Vet Program

WASHINGTON, May 2—(AP)—President Truman signed an appropriations bill last night which carried $1,800,000,000 for the veterans administration, permitting resumption of monthly unemployment and educational payments to 2,780,000 war veterans.

The checks were delayed one day while the bill cleared congress and received the president's signature.

In addition to the veterans funds the 2,835,161,599 measure provided $135,000,000 for social security grants to the states, $300,000,000 for relief by the army in occupied countries, $6,000,000 for the school lunch program and nearly $500,000,000 for army pay raises.

The appropriations are to run various agencies until the end of the fiscal year June 30.

Woman Found Beaten To Death In Dayton--Husband Confesses

DAYTON, May 2—(AP)—Detectives questioned George C. Cummings, 41, of Dayton today for details of his statement at police headquarters that he beat red-haired Hazel Miller Ridge, Cummings, 38, to death in a hotel room.

The woman's nude and beaten body was found by a hotel chambermaid beneath blood-stained blankets in the disordered room late yesterday.

Coroner A. P. McDonald, after an autopsy last night, said the woman had died at about 3 P. M. Thursday from a fractured skull and brain hemorrhage. No weapon was found in the room, and Dr. McDonald said it was "quite possible" a man could have beaten the woman to death with his fists.

Police Sgt. H. H. Caylor said Cummings surrendered at the police station a short time after the woman's body was discovered and made a statement that he killed his wife in the hotel room.

Cummings said he and the slain woman were married recently in Kentucky, Caylor added. The suspect was intoxicated and unable to give a coherent version of what happened in the hotel room, Caylor said.

Authorities reported that a marriage license displayed by Cummings showed the couple was married last Feb. 14 in Harrodsburg, Ky.

Life's New Order Confusing Japs

Federal Help For Hospitals One Step Nearer

Outlook Brightens For Building Here Under New Program

That the Fayette County Hospital may be one step nearer realization of some of the plans of the hospital board members, is indicated in a news release from the Department of Health of Ohio in which it is stated that the first phase of the program which will make available $13,460,000 in federal funds for construction of public hospital facilities in Ohio, has been completed.

A member of the county hospital board here said Friday that the board is ready to present to the state commission in charge of these funds, an application for federal financial aid in the hope of receiving a grant of money sufficient to proceed with plans for construction of the hospital here. Such an application will be made as soon as it is learned that it will be considered.

The Ohio Department of Health states that the staff of the Ohio hospital survey has already visited the more than 600 hospitals, nursing homes and convalescent homes of the state under the direction of Dr. E. V. Turner, director of this survey.

Public law 725 of the 79th congress authorized appropriations to the states to assist them in making an inventory of their present hospital facilities and all but a few of Ohio's hospitals have now supplied the information needed by the hospital survey commission, according to Dr. E. V. Turner.

Federal funds will become available for construction after the survey group has set forth a state plan for hospital expansion acceptable to the Surgeon General of the U. S. Public Health Service who is the national administrator of the law. Another provision of the federal law which Ohio must comply by July 1, 1948, if federal funds are to become available, is the enactment of legislation establishing minimum standards for the maintenance and operation of hospitals receiving federal funds.

US C of C Warns Against Price Cut

WASHINGTON, May 2—(AP)—The new president of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce declared last night an "across the board," industry-wide slash in prices might bring on a severe business setback.

Taking issue with President Truman's call for general price cuts to head off inflation and depression, Earl O. Shreve of New York told a news conference many companies cannot comply because of recent wage increases.

Many others, he said, will be able to do so "and I believe they will."

Wallace Expresses Faith in Russia

CLEVELAND, May 2—(AP)—Former Vice President Henry A. Wallace said today he believed Russia would "do everything possible—more than any other country in the world—to avoid war."

In a press conference preceding his address here tonight, he declared he saw no danger of an eventual spread of Communism throughout the world.

"The way to stop Communism is to give the people something better," Wallace added. "You don't stop Communism by writing editorials against it."

Payments To May Covered Up, Charge

WASHINGTON, May 2—(AP)—The government recalled an FBI expert today for further testimony on charges that munition-makers Henry and Murray Garsson tried to "cover up" wartime money payments to Andrew J. May, former house military committee chairman.

Frank M. Miller, FBI identification expert, already has testified that typewritten invoices of the Cumberland Lumber Company, in which May was interested, bear the same characteristics as samples from a 12-year old typewriter in the Garsson Illinois offices.

William A. Paisley, the prosecutor, said he expects to prove the Cumberland invoices were prepared on a Garsson firm machine. He contends the 72-year-old May received more than $30,000 from the Garsson firms to finance Cumberland but failed to deliver any lumber.

He said documents supposedly showing Garsson purchases from Cumberland actually were faked to represent a legitimate business transaction after a government investigation began.

May, the Garsson brothers and Joseph F. Freeman, their Washington agent, are charged with conspiring to buy May's influence to get government favors.

More Price Cuts Made Voluntarily

NEW YORK, May 2—(AP)—Nylon stockings, men's and children's shoes, gasoline, and pressure cookers were reduced in price today in some areas by individual manufacturers and retailers.

In the steel and iron industry however, there were predictions of further increases in the price of castings and from the canning industry came a warning that this year's pack may be reduced because of raw material costs.

"Spotty" price reductions, Dun & Bradstreet reported, had no measurable effect on the general retail price level for the nation.

Woolworth Co. Head Gets $330,252 Salary

PHILADELPHIA, May 2—(AP)—Top salary of the vast F. W. Woolworth Co. last year went to Charles W. Deyo, chairman of the board, who received $330,252, the company's annual report filed with the securities and exchange commission disclosed yesterday.

The company said in proxy material, also on file at the sec, that its total payroll to all officers and directors last year was $1,804,960, exceeding the 1945 figure by $837,670.

Rising Sun Flag Is Raised--But Over Democracy

New Constitution Goes into Effect On Saturday

By RUSSELL BRINES

TOKYO, May 2—(AP)—The Japanese people got their national flag back today on the eve of inauguration of the country's new constitution.

General MacArthur restored the Rising Sun banner with a strict proviso on where it could be flown without restriction—the emperor's palace, the national diet and supreme court building and the prime minister's residence.

"Let this flag fly," MacArthur wrote Premier Shigeru Yoshida, "to signify the advent in Japanese life to a new and enduring era of peace based upon personal liberty, individual dignity, tolerance and justice."

Until now, MacArthur has permitted display of Japan's flag only on certain holidays. He has approved display of the banner in ceremonies tomorrow ushering in Japan's post-war constitution.

A new constitution becomes the basic law of Japan Saturday but few Japanese have a clear idea of the vast changes it makes in their government.

The constitution, sponsored unofficially by General MacArthur, outlaws war and the military, grants extensive new rights to the people and makes the emperor a figurehead. Its inauguration will be marked by weeklong ceremonies ranging from sports events to lectures on the significance of the new document.

The instruction will be needed. The people know in a general way that individual rights have been granted them; that the old appointive house of peers has been eliminated, and that certain changes have been made in the status of the emperor.

But the people have little appreciation of the authority granted their representatives or of the great changes in governmental responsibility and judicial procedure—changes necessary to eliminate the oligarchic control which Japan's outlawed constitution permitted. In the meantime, they are dependent upon the sincerity and honesty of politicians, most of whom are old-time veterans with more loyalty to party than to constituents.

Few new leaders have arisen and none appears likely to emerge from the current diet, which will select a premier from among its own members after it convenes May 25.

The socialists demand the premiership on the basis of their plurality in the lower house. The conservatives are expected to use their combined majority in a stubborn battle to remain in power.

The Japanese people voiced perhaps their clearest opinion in history at the April 25 election of representatives. They definitely demanded a change in present governmental policies. At the same time they elected Premier Shigeru Yoshida and his cabinet and kept their hold on conservatism.

The election underscored the people's desire for adequate controls to minimize their own personal economic troubles and showed growing political power of organized labor.

But the people sharply rebuffed communism, and with it markedly left wing labor.

In this expression of concrete opinion, the people showed progress toward constitutional government. General MacArthur, hailing the results, said the Japanese voted for candidates of their choice freely and fearlessly.

Dr. Wm. Bolton At Conference In Cincinnati

Many Problems Get Attention During District Meet

Fayette County sanitarian, Dr. William Bolton, attended the spring meeting of the Ohio Valley Food Drug and Health officials held in the YMCA in Cincinnati Wednesday at which brucellosis and maititis were discussed.

Dr. J. L. Stansbury, extension dairy husbandman from OSU agriculture college, presented a paper on brucellosis in animals, while Dr. Harry Wayne, health commissioner from Miami County, talked on disease in human beings. Dr. Carl Wiltz, health commissioner for Cincinnati, acted as master of ceremonies and moderated during the discussion which followed the talks.

A film, "Battling Brucellosis," was shown to the almost 100 members who attended, by the Bureau of Animal Industry.

During the discussion, it was brought out that methods are known by which brucellosis can be controlled, but that action is the thing that is needed to put these methods into effect. Dr. Bolton said that the two big things found in milk in this part of the country are brucellosis and maititis.

Dr. Bolton also said that rat control and cream-filled pies were discussed. He said that the discussion brought out the fact that cream-filled pies are one of the most dangerous foods which can be eaten. He said that the cream filling, which is never cooked in the oven, acts as a good medium for all sorts of disease bacteria.

Mexico's President

by their geographical proximity and parallel histories."

President Aleman referred to the selection of New York City as the seat of the United Nations and said:

"The stricken, distressed people of the world are placing their faith in this organization which conducts here the widest experiment yet attempted by man to abolish war and to maintain peace on a basis of understanding and amity."

"The colossal statue holding aloft its torch in New York City is become anew the symbol of liberty."

Bonds of solidarity "are doubly important in the relations between countries, such as Mexico and the United States, that have a common border," President Aleman continued. "Both our governments realize this importance; both our peoples understand it."

He said that in "the hearty and gracious welcome" extended him by the people of New York he found "an auspicious omen for the advancement of the good neighbor policy and for an ever-growing exchange of goods and services between our nations—commercial, cultural and tourist."

Mayor O'Dwyer, in conferring honorary citizenship of the city upon President Aleman, said he "symbolizes the bond of friendship that exists between the republics of Mexico and the United States."

Pointing out that Mexican troops fought in World War II, O'Dwyer said, "we must never allow comradeship of the battlefield to become a victim of peacetime indifference or misunderstanding."

President Aleman was welcomed by Mayor O'Dwyer and began the greatest round of greetings New York has offered an official visitor since the war.

Stepping from his private railroad car which brought him here from Washington, he was greeted by the Mayor and Grover Whelan, chairman of the city's reception committee. They accompanied him in President Truman's private touring car to his suite at the Waldorf Astoria Hotel.

Grain Markets

CHICAGO, May 2—(AP)—May wheat advanced as much as 6 cents at one time on the board of trade today, but selling came into the pit toward the close and a good part of the upturn was cancelled. May deliveries of corn and oats also were strong.

Buying of the May contracts mainly reflected operations of previous short sellers. It was based on the absence of any tenders of actual grain on these contracts so far this month. Deferred deliveries of all grains held steady.

Both Portugal and Belgium purchased moderate quantities of American flour during the day. There were no reports that the commodity credit corporation was buying cash corn, indicating that the government agency was not following the price advances.

Wheat closed 2-3/4 lower, May $2.62 1/2-2.61 1/2, corn was 1-1/4 lower, May $1.61 1/2-1.61, and oats were 1-1/4 lower, May 88 1/2-89.

Financial Market

NEW YORK, May 2—(AP)—Leading stocks continued to move upward on a selective basis in today's market although many issues faltered.

Chrysler was the star performer, opening 20 minutes late on a 6,000-share block, up 5 1/2 points, and later extending the advance to around 10. This stock was spurred by short covering and net buying following a doubted dividend and 2-for-1 split proposal which surprised Wall Street.

Further professional purchasing still was predicted partly on the idea a technical revival might be at hand in the wake of three successive losing months.

In The Nation Today

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON, May 2—(AP)—President Truman and Mexico's President Aleman have announced there'll be a new U. S. loan to Mexico.

Why? For what?

One reason given is that Mexico needs some of the money to irrigate more land so Mexicans can raise more food to eat better.

Since this isn't the first loan to Mexico, here's the story of the loans.

As with other Latin American countries, we've followed a good neighbor policy with Mexico, our closest southern neighbor.

She's been borrowing money from us since 1934 from the U. S. Export-Import Bank, a government agency.

The bank was created in 1934 to make loans to foreign governments to increase, in one way or another, our trade with them.

Since 1934 the bank has approved loans to Mexico totaling $98,000,000. Of that total Mexico:

1. Still has left untouched in the bank $30,000,000.
2. Has borrowed $68,000,000.
3. Has repaid $13,000,000.
4. Still owes, therefore, $55,000,000 of the borrowed $68,000,000.
5. Can borrow any time the still untouched $30,000,000 mentioned in No. 1.

The money borrowed so far has been spent for highway construction and equipment for steel mills, gasoline refineries, railroads, electricity, and aviation.

Mexico now is reported to want—in addition to the $30,000,000 waiting in the export-import bank—another $50,000,000 to $175,000,000.

This money would go into developing Mexican power, irrigation and industrial projects.

When he was inaugurated last Dec. 1 President Aleman announced a 6-year program in his country to increase irrigation there.

To raise enough food to feed themselves properly, Mexicans figure they need to irrigate six times as much land as they irrigate now.

In their announcement yesterday the two presidents said they'd work out an agreement to keep Mexican money on an even keel.

This means letting Mexico buy American dollars when she needs them and sell them back when she doesn't. This is how:

Mexico, like any other country doing business with us, must have dollars to pay for what she buys here.

In wartime, when she could sell us more than she could buy, Mexico was able to build up a supply of dollars.

Now she's buying from us again and using up those dollars. Right now a dollar is worth about 5 pesos.

If dollars get scarcer, because they're used up buying American goods, some Mexicans may start offering 6 or 7 or 8 pesos for a dollar. That would cheapen the value of the peso.

If that starts, the Mexican government may want to buy American dollars to keep the value of the peso sound; five for a dollar.

Champion Spellers Here Set To Try for State Crown

Norman Pope, eighth grade student from Washington C. H. High School, and Billy Case, eighth grade Conner School student, are the champion spellers who will go to the state spelling contest in Columbus Saturday.

Norman, who is the Washington C. H. representative, was the winner in the city eliminations held early in March. Miss Ethel Arnold, eighth grade English teacher, was Norman's teacher under which he won the oral examination.

Billy will be the county representative at the Columbus event.

Billy's teacher is Miss Edith Brown. He was winner of the county spelling contest eliminations which were held at Bloomington, Saturday, April 19.

The winner of the state contest, which will be held in the Southern Hotel in Columbus, Saturday, will go to the national eliminations in Washington, D. C. National winner will be given $500 and a free trip to New York City.

The contest in Columbus is jointly sponsored by the Record-Herald and the Columbus Citizen.

$27,063,836 compared with $26,094,510 for the same period last year. Comparison shows that Fayette County sales are keeping pace with the big gain in the state.

Poles Move Germans To Take Over Jobs

WROCLAW, Poland—(AP)—Forty thousand Germans on farm-lands of state-owned estates in Lower Silesia are shortly to be repatriated to Germany and their jobs taken over by Poles. The Germans represented 70 percent of the total working upon approximately 2,500,000 acres of land.

Based on latest sales tax figures for Fayette County, which show that up to April 19 a total of $64,269 in sale of prepaid tax receipts had been made in Fayette County so far this year, the amount spent for taxable goods in the county was $2,120,877.

Last year up to this time the sales reached $52,042, which would be equivalent to a least $1,717,286 in actual sales of taxable goods. This means that the gain in sales of taxable things in the county up to the present was $403,591 more than for the same period last year, which is regarded as a pretty healthy condition in connection with business generally.

In the state at large total sales of prepaid tax receipts reached

Fearful Lawmakers

Why legislatures are not always respected is shown by one Ohio incident. For years the state has been giving money to various veterans' organizations. It was $250,000 in 1946 and $386,000 this year. No one around the capitol seemed to know why the money was given in the first place or why it was increased now.

A newly elected member of the house of representatives called for an opinion of the attorney-general to see if the appropriation was legal. This would also give the veterans' organizations a chance to come forward and explain why their claim to the money was legitimate, which it may well have been.

Did the house adopt this sensible resolution? It did not. By a vote of 61 to 45 it bottled the resolution up in a committee which could be trusted not to report it out. The majority preferred to give away state money without an explanation, rather than risk losing some votes.

Perhaps Ohio should be glad that as many as 45 members out of 106 had the courage of their convictions and a sense of public responsibility.

Cutting Relief Costs

Warning that the American taxpayer will be paying Europe's food bill for many years unless war-ravaged countries are soon put on a productive basis, former President Herbert Hoover deplored the dismantling of German munition plants. These, though posing a threat of munition making, could have turned out phosphorus and nitrogen, essential in food-raising. "Europe is gasping for fertilizer," Mr. Hoover added.

A severe winter, with spring floods, has cut production. Mr. Hoover told reporters this country would have to spend 350 millions for relief in Europe this year.

Herbert Hoover is recognized as knowing food needs and distribution. He has recently returned from a food-investigating tour of Europe, so his words carry a warning. Europe's plight is not going to be met quickly or easily. Thought should be applied to getting that continent on its feet as soon as possible. If fertilizers can be manufactured over there, it would seem only intelligent American policy to see that no more such factories are destroyed.

The American taxpayer realizes that he must foot relief bills for a long time, but the burden should be lightened wherever possible.

Chain Letters

The anonymous chain letter is flourishing again. The currently popular one is called the Luck of London. It carries the usual promise of good fortune to the recipient who copies it and sends it on to friends, as well as the traditional threat of calamity if it is ignored.

Chain letters have existed since the sixth century when one circulated in Germany and Poland. Many of the early varieties were considered as divinely written in heaven by no human hand. They come to the fore in times of stress. After the first

Satire is a lonely and introspective occupation, for nobody can describe a fool to the life without much patient self-inspection.

—Frank Moore Colby.

Hints on Etiquette

When you greet an old friend in public, do it in an unobtrusive, quiet manner, which shows your good breeding. You can be cordial without making yourself conspicuous.

Today's Horoscope

You are patient and kind. You like pleasant surroundings, are uncommunicative, and keep your troubles to yourself. You are very well liked by everyone, and have no enemies. You will make a devoted and understanding parent. The day is good. There will probably be a chance to make adjustments. Love or domestic troubles threaten you in your next year, calling for watchfulness against deception. Defer courtship and marriage. Friendships and social activities are also ill-starred. Concentrate on vocational activities. Born today a child will not be robust and sorrow and disappointment in love or marriage is indicated. Relatives and friends also may cause trouble through deception and dissension.

One-Minute Test Answers

1. Gilda.
2. In Ireland.
3. Hansel and Gretel.

World War one like the present variety, then called the Flanders Letter, went around the world many times, reaching American and Japanese navy officials, finding its way to England, China, Russia, Sweden and Germany.

The Luck of London letter is gaining in circulation. Since there is no money or lottery solicitation involved, it cannot be barred from the mails. It is an expression of the current insecurity and frustration in the world, a pathetic evidence that superstition and magic still have their followers.

If one comes to your house, remember that it is the part of morality and good sense to break the chain and to advise others to do likewise. The chain letter does no one any good, and may do harm to weaker minds than yours.

Babe on a Bench

It was sad in a way—that recent news picture of Babe Ruth sitting on a Yankee bench in New York, surrounded by old friends and worshipping boys, but with tired eyes for which the universal adulation hardly seemed to compensate. And yet it was a grand picture of a great man, whose feats and character alike will doubtless be appreciated by countless thousands as long as this great sport endures. Here was, and is, a champion worthy of legendary King Arthur in his prime, of whom Tennyson wrote these understanding words:

"Though we are not now the power which in old time moved heaven and earth, that which we are, we are—one equal temper of heroic hearts, made weak by time and fate, but strong in soul to strive, to fight, to win, and not to yield."

Arthur and the Babe, meeting some day in the Elysian Fields, will recognize each other.

Nuggets of Wisdom

A few good thoughts are one thing; the practical good sense which gets things done is something else.

It is all right for any individual to hold beautiful visionary theories about helping people with other people's money. But the Lord helps them who help themselves. Discretion is the better part of valor. The tongue is an unruly member.

"Behold how great a matter a little fire kindleth." And how often silence is golden!

They say Thomas Jefferson brought wild rice to this country, but the wild oats seems to have just sifted in from 'most everywhere.

Disease-Producing Organism

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

A VIRUS is the smallest of disease-producing organisms known, so tiny that it can be seen, if at all, only with the most powerful of electron microscopes. There are perhaps thousands of different kinds of these trouble-makers. Many of them seem to have a special affinity for certain tissues, producing disease by attacking these and these alone.

For instance infectious hepatitis, a disease affecting the liver, is thought to be caused by one of these viruses. It has been shown that the virus is present in the blood, in the secretions from the nose and throat and in the stools of patients suffering from this disease, but in its attack on the liver, it does its greatest damage.

From various studies and reports it is thought that the disease is spread at times by contaminated water, milk and food.

Development of Condition

The condition seems to develop within 20 to 40 days after a person has been exposed to it. It begins suddenly with fever, sometimes with chills, pain in the joints and general aching of the muscles. The fever is seldom very high and usually returns to normal after three to four days. Sometimes there are symptoms present like that of a cold, occasionally with sore throat. Loss of appetite, sickness to the stomach, and vomiting and diarrhea often occur.

About four to five days after the onset, the patient develops jaundice which is a greenish-yellow discoloration of the skin. However, the jaundice often may not appear for several weeks or may develop even on the first day of the sickness. The jaundice may last for two weeks up to seven months or even longer. Enlargement of the lymph glands as well as increase in the size of the liver is also present.

Not Usually Serious

Infectious hepatitis is not, as a rule, a serious disease. However, in occasional cases, it may even be fatal. Hence, the doctor should be called at once whenever it is suspected.

According to Dr. George Blumer of California, it is most important that the patient gets enough rest during the period of recovery. In addition he should receive a diet containing plenty of starchy foods and sugars as well as enough proteins from such foods as meat, milk and eggs.

During the early days of the illness, the patient should be kept at complete rest in bed and given plenty of fluids, easily digested foods and such medicines as are necessary to relieve discomfort and sleeplessness. During the period of jaundice, the diet should be free from fats. Occasionally a substance known as methionine may be administered since it seems to help protect the liver cells from damage.

Epidemics of infectious hepatitis are by no means infrequent and when such an epidemic is occurring persons should be on the lookout for the symptoms of this disease and report to their doctor without delay.

CHAPTER ONE

THE OCCASION

THE OCCASION for the traffic jam outside the Tarrell home was the wedding of Diane Tarrell to Bill Arden. Even the sidewalks were crowded by the curious. "Let 'em stand," said one of the policemen detailed to the event. "Isn't it like it was a fight?" "Not yet, anyway," answered the other, cheerfully.

So the women and some men continued to stand and to stare expectantly at the lighted windows. It was the daughter of J. Emmet Tarrell getting married behind that blaze. Some said he was the richest man in Grandharbor, others that he was mostly bluff. That he'd started as a stevedore on the docks at San Francisco, that he'd made his pile smuggling, No, he'd struck gold in Alaska. No, it was tin down in South America. He had come to Grandharbor only two years ago and its citizens, inclined to modesty in their claims for their city's opportunities, were still figuring why and for what.

A few talked about the way he'd bought this house, one of the finest on Oak Avenue. Oliver Matthews of the Matthews Paper Company had built it, ten years ago, and then his company had gone under and he had put it up for sale, with everything in it, even the paintings he had collected and one of them a Romney. And up had stepped J. Emmet Tarrell with the cash practically in his pocket. He'd kept on the Matthews servants and moved in as if one hotel to another. His wife, not the girl's mother but a second one, and the daughter had ridden up in a taxi around five o'clock of a winter afternoon and two hours later had eaten their dinner of the Matthews' dishes, cooked by the Matthews' cook and served to them by the Matthews' son's butler.

The younger women talked about the girl. Some had served her in various eating places, where, they contributed, she was always with a lively crowd of young people and the life of it; others had sold dresses and hats and gloves and such to her and could say with authority that she didn't care how much anything cost. All had seen her face frequently in the Grandharbor newspapers, snapped at one or another gay young affair, every kind of garb from a scant swimming suit to an all-enveloping fur evening coat; some had read about her in the local newspapers' gossip columns, which made her as near a glamor girl as Grandharbor had.

A few talked of the bridegroom and agreed he was a lucky devil, marrying into J. Emmet Tarrell's money. He was a lawyer, they said, and a very good one. The Arden family, wasn't it, that'd been in Grandharbor since its beginning! Well, it all proved that this was a country of opportunity!

They waited patiently and in good-will through the May evening for Diane Tarrell and William Arden to come down under the awning, when for a brief moment they'd feel one with romance and glamor and youth. They could hear the strains of dance music and see dancing figures past the windows. The ceremony itself must be long over, it wasn't likely the bride'd stay on.

But Diane was staying on. With the sweep of her veil and her long satin train crushed under one elbow, she was dancing from one partner's arms to another's, her eyes, under dusky lashes, deeply blue, her lips parted on a delight as breathless as a child's.

"It's too good a party to walk out on isn't it?" she had said. Not to Bill, but to Danny Carver, who was claiming her most frequently. "We've all of our lives to live together, Bill and I!"

J. Emmet Tarrell, coming down the wide stairway from a visit to his room to reinforce himself with a nip of Bourbon, saw her dancing in the hall below and paused to watch her. Like her mother, he twisted his heart. An old pain twisted his heart. It ought to be her mother, dressed up and having a good time down there! But it wasn't. The nearest she'd come to a party dress was that red one taken to her from Seattle and she'd never worn it—Then over the pain rose a hard satisfaction. Some wedding, this, for their girl, with everybody who was anybody in the town down there, dancing and eating and drinking his champagne. Diane in no hurry to go off, either!

His hand tightened on the polished banister. He didn't want her to go off. She was just a kid. She didn't know anything about men, for all she'd had most of this town's young men trailing her these last two years. This Arden maybe was the pick of them, good-looking and good habits, as far as he knew, which wasn't far, considering it was only five months ago Diane'd met him, bound to get ahead in his law, everyone predicted.

But, hang it, that way of his of looking so granite when he didn't agree with you! That wouldn't go so well with Diane who'd always had pretty much her own way of things. It hadn't with him, when Bill stood as firm as a rock against his plan of the two of them coming back here to live. And his going on with D's allowance.

Where was the young man now? J. Emmet's eyes sought and found him, not among the dancers, but in view of the library beyond the hall, where guests who were not dancing were gathered in little groups. He was standing with his mother and father and the Matthews, with a look on his face of controlled enduring. His father and mother had it, J. Emmet thought, the Matthews. Heck, they held themselves above this sort of shindig—sheep thrown in with the goats, eh? J. Emmet Tarrell snorted. Well, neither the Ardens nor the Matthews could pay for a tea party now!

But Bill Arden's mother wasn't thinking of sheep and goats. She was thinking: "It seems only yesterday that Bill was going off to college for the first time!" Of his room, at home, which would be empty, now. She held tightly to her evening bag to keep her hands from going to Bill's arm. "You're coming back on the twelfth?" "Yes," confirmed Bill, but in a preoccupied way.

"Bill, you must hunt up the Tremonts when you are in Hamilton," said Allitha Matthews. "They'll love meeting you. I've talked so often to them about you. And they'll want to meet Diane," she added. "You see, I can't believe you are married!" "After old Cameron put all his stuff into it!" But the lightness was only on Bill's lips; his eyes, following the dancers, were seeking and impatient.

His mother saw that. Now her hand touched him and the gesture was a prayer for her boy and this girl he had chosen.

Allitha Matthews spoke again of the Tremonts. It had been several months since she'd had a letter, she said. She'd be so glad of any news of them Bill might bring back. Marcia Tremont hadn't been well at all last summer.

Marcia Tremont had been a girlhood friend of Allitha Matthews. And Allitha talked of her now, because it kept her from thinking of the loss of this house, of the curious twist of fate in Bill's marrying the daughter of the man who had bought it. Except for that she'd never have come into it again. It had not been easy to come; she had felt sickened with reluctance. To see the lovely rooms which had been their home, the possessions so intimately hers and Oliver's and not, now. But she had not spoken a word to Oliver of what was in her heart. She had borrowed strength from her pride of him. Few men would have stood up to reverses as he had; certainly not this J. Emmet Tarrell, if even half of the things said about him were true.

There was a resounding clash of cymbals and a little rush to the hall. "I think Diane's going up to change," murmured Mrs. Arden.

Bill's best man was elbowing a way through the young people, crowding toward the stairs. "Where's Bill?" He saw Bill, came to him, locked his arm through his and drew him away, imperatively.

"She's going to throw her bouquet," went from one guest to another.

It was part of the show. The guests in the library and enclosed terrace beyond moved toward the hall to watch it. Diane had run up the stairs. Midway she paused and wheeled around, hugging her willing flowers against her. In the mist of her veil and with the dark gloss of the palms behind her, she looked very small and young and innocent.

Directly below her the bridesmaids were stretching up eager hands. To tease them Diane pretended not to see them. She stood poised, hesitating, letting a smiling, half-pensive glance go over them and slowly over the room. Until it fell on a girl, drawn as far from the crowding guests as the wall permitted. Page Winston, second her guileless expression vanished. Let Page have them! Her hand moved out and back as though it held a baseball; with unerring aim she sent the white flowers hurtling over the lifted faces straight to Page Winston's feet. Then with a soft laugh she turned and ran up the stairs.

"What a gyp," murmured one of the bridesmaids, loudly.

Ohio Congressman Fights Dillon Dam

WASHINGTON, May 2—(P)—Rep. McGregor (R-Ohio) introduced in the house yesterday a bill to block construction work on the Dillon Dam in Ohio.

McGregor declared the project no longer was justified in the light of increased costs since its authorization in the Rivers and Harbors Act of 1938. His bill would repeal that section of the act authorizing the dam to be built on the Licking River about five miles above its confluence with the Muskingum.

A Letter from Washington

By Jane Eads

WASHINGTON — Gen. John H. Hildring, who recently retired from the army after 30 years, is now heading up a new organization formed of "military government alumni."

The association is non-political, private and non-profit. Membership is open to all persons of all ranks of the U. S. armed forces, as well as civilians, who have served in military government.

Its organizers figure that from 30,000 to 50,000 or more persons are eligible to the group, which General Hildring says could constitute "a head of steam" behind a proper U. S. foreign policy.

General Hildring, who was director of the civil affairs division of the war department during the war, retired from the army last year in the grade of major general and was appointed an assistant secretary of state.

In this capacity he is responsible for formulating our policy in the occupied areas—Germany, Austria, Japan and Korea. More than 10,000 Americans now are serving the military government.

set-ups in these countries. About two-thirds are civilians.

"We fought the war to bring into the world a lasting peace of freedom, tolerance and decency and as yet none of these objectives has been wholly attained," says General Hildring.

The new association he hopes "will be able to make a genuine contribution to the realization of these objectives."

"We have throughout the country many thousands of Americans who took the first constructive steps toward the peace," he says. "They were the military government personnel, who operated in the wake of our advancing armies, administering the welfare of conquered, or liberated civil populations. These are the persons who have no doubts in their hearts as to why the war was fought."

"If this country exerts the leadership expected from it," he says, "the subject of military government must have a large place in the military establishment."

He believes, in fact, that the army's biggest job today is military government. A program of the new association, he says, would be "promotion of efficiency in military government affairs of the armed forces."

The Military Government Association, as it is called, will be organized on a state-by-state basis with national headquarters in Washington. The first directors' meeting will be held later this month.

General Hildring, blue-eyed ruddy-complexioned and energetic, was a New York newspaperman before he went into the army. He went to France with the 38th infantry regiment in 1918 and served in Germany with the army of occupation in 1919.

He holds the Distinguished Service Cross for extraordinary heroism in action and in 1944 was awarded the Distinguished Service Medal with Oak Leaf cluster. He also is a commander of the Order of British Empire and the Order of Leopold.

In addition, he is president of the Infantry Association.

Annual May Day Observance on Thursday, May 8

Gala Event Planned Will Be Held at Gardner Park

Broad jump contests, maypole dance and band music will all be a part of the 11th annual May Day and Child Health Field Day which will be held for the fourth, fifth and sixth graders of the city schools at Gardner Park on Thursday, May 8.

Tropies and ribbons will be given to the schools and children who win the highest number of points in the contests. The event will begin at 9:30 A. M. and an hour will be taken out at noon for the children to eat their picnic lunches, which they will bring from home. Milk will be ordered for those children that wish it and the Girls Athletic Association will have a refreshment stand.

The day will be opened with two maypole dances, directed by Miss Mary Elizabeth Browning. Band music and a flag raising will also open the program.

Fred Pierson, boys' athletic director, and Miss Mary Fisher, girls' athletic director, will be in charge of the events. High school students have been appointed to assist in organizing the events.

The day will begin with a procession of three grade schools, East Side, Rose Avenue and Central, and the high school band, under the direction of William Clift, Jr., from the Temple Street entrance of the high school. Sunnyside and Cherry Hill boys and girls will march directly from their own buildings to the field.

Try-outs are being held in the five schools this week and the boys and girls who will be eligible to enter the events will be announced later in the week. The entire fourth, fifth and sixth grades will be dismissed for the day and the children who are not participating in the events, will attend as spectators.

The events for the fourth grade boys will be 50-yard dash.

Events for the fourth, fifth and sixth grade boys will include a 50-yard dash, a standing broad jump contest, a running broad jump contest, a high jump contest, three trials in a punting contest and a 220-yard relay.

Fourth, fifth and sixth grade girls will have contests including a 50-yard dash, a standing broad jump contest, a running broad jump contest, a high jump contest, a softball throwing contest and a 220-yard relay.

Boys and girls alike may enter two contests and the relay.

Point system for the awards is as follows: first place, five points; second place, three points; third place, two points, and fourth place, one point. Ribbons will be given to every child in first, second, third and fourth place. A trophy will be given to the fourth, fifth and sixth grades of all the schools which have the highest number of points among the children. A grand trophy will be given to the school with the highest number of points.

There will be a first aid tent on the grounds operated by the county health nurses. Parents and the public have been invited to attend the field day free of charge.

Red Scientists Find New Fish Supplies

LONDON —(P)—Added food supplies for Russia are being found by Soviet scientists in 16 ships who track fish, according to the Tass News Agency.

Herring which live in Murmansk waters until they are five years old migrate 12,500 miles to the warm Spitzbergen current and the Greenland Sea where they find a variety of plankton that makes them unusually fat, one group of scientists found.

Other fishing grounds were found in the Black Sea, formerly regarded as almost barren of fish.

A combination of top comedy and musical talent is promised movie fans when Paramount's "Ladies' Man" arrives for three days beginning Sunday at the State Theatre. The romantic laugh film stars Eddie Bracken, Cass Daley, Virginia Welles, Spike Jones and His City Slickers and features dancer Johnny Coy and lovely, blonde Virginia Lee Corbin.

The story of "Ladies' Man" should give Bracken ample opportunity to display his talent for getting laughs. It tells the romantic adventures of a simple Oklahoma boy who discovers oil on his farm, and who heads for New York to see the sights in the big town. What happens to him there, when he naively announces over the radio in a street broadcast, makes "Ladies' Man" a riotously funny film, according to advance reports. Also Roy Rogers and Trigger in "My Pal Trigger."

Sculpture Barred

"STUFFY" is the word Miss Mitzie Solomon, prominent sculptress, used in referring to a board of judges which barred her work, "The Lovers," from the National Academy of Design show in New York. Here Miss Solomon sits in her studio looking at a section of the work which was labeled "too vulgar" for display. (International)

He Made Good; Gets Freedom

PITTSBURGH, May 2—(P)—A middle-aged carpenter, who has been a fugitive from justice for more than half his life, has won the right to legal freedom in Pennsylvania. Judge Thomas A. Marshall yesterday permitted William H. Dern, Jr., 46, to go free under a writ of habeas corpus because, the judge said, he has been a "good citizen of Pennsylvania during the past 22 years."

The graying, nervous man whom the neighbors described as "reliable and honest," appeared in court to fight extradition proceedings brought by Ohio authorities for an offense he committed 25 years ago.

At that time he was convicted of grand larceny—theft of scrap brass from a building he was helping to raise. Sentenced to one to seven years in prison, Dern escaped in 1922 after serving 10 months and moved to Brackenridge, Pa., where he assumed a new name and married.

Mother To Go To Prison For Killing Daughter

WARREN, May 2—(P)—Mrs. Heston of nearby Girard today faced a sentence of one to 20 years in the Marysville women's reformatory after pleading guilty to first degree manslaughter in the fatal shooting of her two-year-old daughter, Theresa, last Feb. 9.

OHIO WANTS HIM
COLUMBUS, May 2 — (P)—Miss Barbara Danford, executive secretary of the state welfare department, said today Ohio would hold open the case of William H. Dern, Jr., a fugitive from Ohio penitentiary, "as long as he lives."

"If he comes to Ohio," said Miss Danford, "he will be arrested and if he goes to another state than Pennsylvania, we will try to extradite him."

Skipped Herring Mixes With Coal

OSLO—(P)—When the Norwegian freighter, Tommeliten, under way from Normandy to Cuxhaven, Germany, with fresh herring ran short of coal because of stormy weather, a bright fellow recommended a mixture of herring and the remaining coal. The new fuel turned out to be a great success and the ship made port.

Vienna School Children Still Undernourished

VIENNA —(P)—An examination of approximately 50 percent of Vienna's schoolchildren by the Vienna health board has revealed that at least 75 percent of them are undernourished.

In spite of American, Swedish and Swiss programs for providing at least one hot meal daily to each pupil, at least 32 percent are suffering from "serious" undernourishment, the health board reported.

LINCOLN, Ill.—(P)—A tank at the sewage disposal plant here yielded $150 in government bonds. Sheriff C. L. Kief said the bonds, apparently part of the contents of a stolen cash box dumped into an open sewer a half mile away, floated free and into the sewage plant. The box was empty upon recovery.

Personal Help Given Veterans By Legion Posts

Claims for Benefits
Investigated as
One of Services

Many Ohio veterans and their families would be dependent upon state or county funds but for the aid of more than 600 local and state American Legion service officers, who investigate their claims for benefits and present the evidence to the proper authorities, it was revealed today by Robert H. Smith, Ohio Legion service director.

Neither the Veterans Administration nor any other government agency has the time to give personal attention to each of the state's one million veterans, Smith said, while Legion service officers, with power-of-attorney rights granted by law, are set up for exactly that purpose—to give each veteran's case the individual attention it deserves and to expedite the adjudication of claims.

"In a 10-week period ending April 12, representatives at the two main Legion-operated service offices in Cleveland and Cincinnati obtained 1,320,267.93 in Federal benefits for claimants," Mr. Smith stated.

"Veterans were found to be entitled to treatment for service-connected disabilities in a VA hospital at federal expense instead of obtaining their treatment in a county or state institution.

"In many cases, veterans were proved to be entitled to compensation for their disability, which aided them in supporting their families. Other veterans looked to the Legion to help them in collecting new evidence to appeal a claim previously turned down by the VA.

"All these services are free to all veterans, without the obligation of membership in the American Legion," Smith emphasized.

The state Legion veterans' service framework includes 18 employees in offices at Columbus, Cleveland and Cincinnati and contact with veterans at Crile, Brecksville, Marine General, Chillicothe and Dayton Veterans Administration hospitals. These offices are supported by Legion funds and an annual appropriation from the state of Ohio.

In addition to recovery of claims, Legion service offices operated by posts, county councils and the Department of Ohio serve as veterans' information and advisory centers, assist in death claims and burial of veterans and act as a clearing-house for information of interest to veterans.

Six hundred and twenty five Legion Posts in Ohio have service officers, who, in some communities, operate veterans' service centers. In addition, Posts sometimes have combined to maintain a county service office, which is open to all veterans for prosecution of claims and general information.

Chile Buying Wine From Australian Grapes

CANBERRA — (AP) — Chilean Minister to Australia Manuel Hubner says his country is interested in the importation of Australian port and sherry.

The minister told correspondents in the Australian capital that although Chile was a wine-producing country it did not make the heavier fortified types.

Ohio Public Work Funds Authorized

WASHINGTON, May 2—(P)—The bureau of community facilities of the federal works agency today advanced funds to finance preparation of drawings and specifications for several local public works projects in Ohio.

The funds are to be repaid, without interest, when construction is begun. The list of projects includes:

Lexington, Richland County, sanitary sewerage system, including a sewage treatment plant, estimated cost $125,225, federal advance $4,600; board of education of South Point local school district of Sheridan, Lawrence County, school addition, $53,250, and $1,900; Conneaut, Ashtabula County, sewerage additions, including a pumping station, $221,115 and $7,150; Richmond, Jefferson County, water system, including a well, storage tank and pump house, $49,830 and $1,800.

Colleges Bid For Teachers

CLEVELAND, May 2—(P)—Colleges and universities are "bidding fiercely" for star members of each other's teaching staffs in a current shortage that has become most critical, says Dean Harlan H. Hatcher of the College of Arts and Sciences of Ohio State University.

"A university with a good but underpaid professor is in the position of a Sunday school boy walking through a tough neighborhood with a lollipop," he told the OSU alumni at a meeting here last night.

Hardly a day passes without some member of the OSU faculty receiving a good offer from another school, Dean Hatcher said. He declared that just last week four smaller colleges offered from $600 to $1,500 higher salaries to some of OSU's more promising younger instructors and buttered their offers with assistant or associate professorship rank.

So far it had imported only the sherry of Spain and Duro port of Portugal, he added.

Traffic Takes Heavy Toll of Pedestrians

One-Third of 1,823 Killed in Ohio Were Walking

Of the 1,823 persons who lost their lives in Ohio's vehicle accidents last year, 17 of them were killed in Fayette County.

A survey shows that more than one-third of the victims killed were pedestrians, chiefly in the larger cities.

"These 692 persons would be alive today if motorist and pedestrian alike used reasonable care while driving and walking," according to J. C. Hiestand, president of the Ohio State Safety Council.

The outstanding pedestrian error is crossing streets between intersections, with diagonal crossing sometimes termed "jaywalking" a close second. Many walkers along the highway still do not use the left side of the road. Unless they face oncoming traffic they cannot see or avoid the vehicle bearing down upon them.

Many pedestrians do not realize that a car at 30 miles per hour travels a city block while one walks across the street. Likewise motorists overlook the fact. The combination of errors frequently brings the pedestrian in front of the car, unexpectedly. Each saw the other, but neither realized that an accident was in the making unless one or both changed speed or course.

At intersections pedestrians have the right of way over turning vehicles, and once a pedestrian has started across the street at an intersection, motor traffic should wait until the pedestrian has reached a place of safety.

Sixty percent of pedestrian victims were over 45 years of age, so there is the possibility that some physical factors such as hearing, eyesight or agility, may have prevented the pedestrian from realizing his danger until too late.

Streets and highways can be safe for all if the motorist drives and the pedestrian walks safely.

Pupils of Cherry Hill School get statewide recognition on conservation and tree-planting program. The above picture, on the cover of the Ohio Conservation Bulletin for April, was taken during the 1946 Arbor Day planting of two dogwood trees on the school grounds.

Conservation of natural resources and Arbor Day are more than mere words to the boys and girls of Cherry Hill School which today is recognized all over the state for its well-planned and long-range program of tree planting.

For 12 years now, Arbor Day has been observed at Cherry Hill with the planting of one or more trees. So consistent has the observance been that the state department of conservation took official notice of it with a picture of last year's tree planting on the

Condition of Autos Better Than in 1945

Improvement Is Made During Past Year Survey Shows

Based upon results of a national survey, Fayette County automobiles are in better over-all mechanical condition than they were in 1945, according to the American Automobile Association. Most of the autos are, of course, pre-war models.

The AAA estimated that there were 32,325,000 mechanical breakdowns in the U. S. during the year, a drop of more than 10 per cent from 1945—the year of record woes for the nation's drivers. The estimate is based on reports from the 14,000 garages under contract to render emergency service to automobile club members.

"The increasing availability of tires and spare parts has made it possible for the average motorist to keep his car in much better repair than during the first post-war year," the national motoring body declared.

Other highlights in the AAA's inventory of motoring griefs last year were:

Tire trouble continued its unchallenged leadership as the number one cause of SOS calls from drivers. A total of 9,675,000 flat tires is indicated for the year, amounting to roughly 30 per cent of all breakdown causes.

Battery trouble accounted for 5,789,000 emergency calls with ignition failures numbering nearly 4,000,000. Cars conked out with carburetor trouble in more than 2,000,000 cases.

Tow trucks went out on 4,538,000 calls, while the increased number of accidents last year was reflected in the 1,293,000 times wrecker cranes had to go to the rescue.

Absent-mindedness continued to play an important role in motoring difficulties; 799,000 ran out of gas while 372,000 either lost their keys or locked their cars with the keys inside.

Louisville Cashing in On Derby---Prices Soar While Crowds Pour in

By SID FEDER
LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 2—(AP)—All you need around Louisville today is money.

That is, provided you had a hotel room in this overloaded village while you were waiting around for the entries to be filed this morning for the 73rd Kentucky Derby and for the expected 13 starters to show for the scramble at 4:45 P. M. (CST) tomorrow. Up to yesterday, there were only supposed to be 12 going to the post. Then Jett-Jett, a mud-melander colt from the barn of William Peavy of Ladysmith, Wis., was dropped into the lists to be named when the entry box opened for business at 7:30 A. M.

There was one other change in the lineup overnight. Jockey Johnny Adams, the Kansas booter who has won the National Riding Championship three times, notified trainer Graceton Philpot he would be unable to pilot Movie-Man Harry Warner's W. L. Sickle Saturday because he's booked for a stake race in New York.

It was only $20 to $30 per night per room for these final three nights to have the privilege of being bunked in with total strangers in this sardine packing plant. What's more it was strictly pay in advance for the three nights.

Food and liquor prices were tripled. Night clubs were putting on the ten-dollar cover charge, dollar-a-drink.

Col. Matt Winn is looking for all-time banner turnout of 125,000 in his Churchill Downs Derby factory tomorrow.

Here is the expected Kentucky Derby lineup for tomorrow; one mile and a quarter; $100,000 added; all carry 126 pounds:

Horse	Jockey
Phalanx	E. Arcaro
Faultless	D. Dodson
Jet Pilot	E. Guerin
On Trust	J. Longden
Star Reward	S. Brooks
Riskolater	W. Balzaretto
Bullet Proof	W. Wright
Liberty Road	J. D. Jessop
Stepfather	J. Westrope
Doubtful Jay	J. Gilbert
Cosmic Bomb	S. Clark
W. L. Sickle	No Boy
Jett Jett	W. Hanka

(Stepfather and W. L. Sickle coupled).

Here are the facts on the derby at Churchill Downs Saturday. Probable field—13 three-year-olds.

Distance—one and one-quarter miles.

Value—$100,000 added.

Probable Attendance—125,000.

Weather forecast—fair and warmer.

Post time—4:45 P. M. (CST).

Gross if 13 start—$119,750.

Net to winner if 13 start—$91,700.

Derby is seventh race on nine-race card.

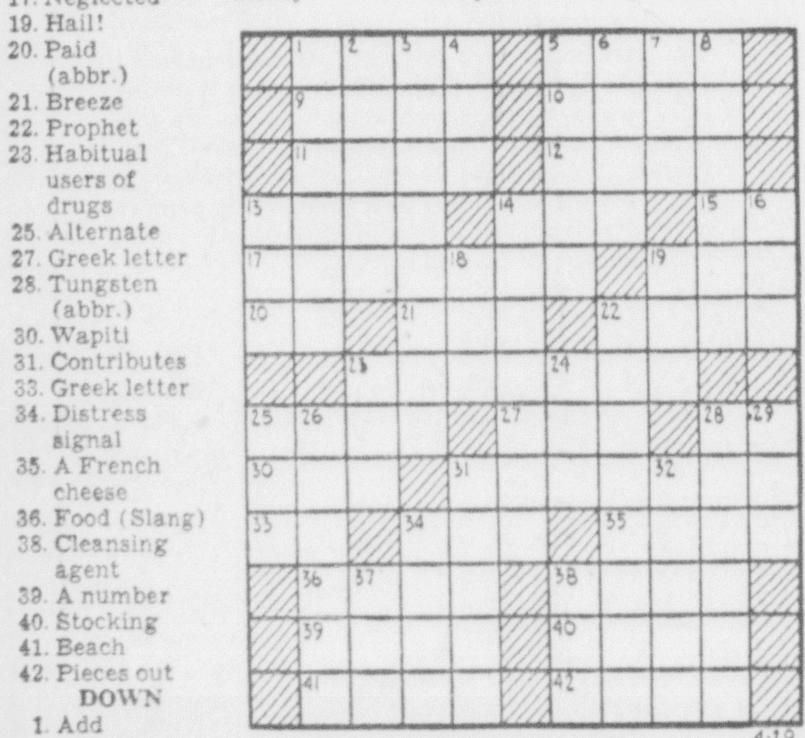

First race—11:30 A. M. (CST).

Broadcast preview (CBS) 3:30 P. M. (CST).

Broadcast of race begins at 4:30 P. M. (CST).

MacPhail and Chandler Silent Following Private Six-Hour Talk

By FRITZ HOWELL
CINCINNATI, May 2—(AP)—It looks as if Baseball Commissioner A. B. (Happy) Chandler has accomplished, at least temporarily, one of his toughest tasks—that of putting the silence on red-haired Larry MacPhail, volatile voice of the New York Yankees.

The two terrific talkers, neither known for any taciturn talent, put on a conversational contest for six hours and 40 minutes in Happy's office yesterday, and just who won the marathon is still a mystery.

MacPhail appeared on the carpet at Chandler's order, the supposition being he wanted to chat with Larry about the latter's failure to observe a "don't open your mouth except to breathe" edict relative to the circumstances surrounding the April 9 suspension for the 1947 season of Brooklyn Dodger manager Leo (The Lip) Durocher.

After the long conference, during which both principals missed lunch, Chandler gave up one golf date, and 13 newsmen and six photographers cooled their heels in an anti-room, MacPhail said he had no comment and Chandler wouldn't even say that, except through a spokesman.

MacPhail flew back to his Yankee base last night.

At the close of the conference MacPhail appeared about "talked out" as he turned to the newspapermen and declared:

"Gentlemen, I'm sorry I'll not be able to help you. If you want any information you must get it from this office."

He turned through the door marked "baseball" and was greeted by flashing camera bulbs as Walter Mulbry, Chandler's assistant and spokesman, came from the commissioner's office and declared:

"There is no story, gentlemen. The colonel and commissioner, as you know, have talked about six and a half hours on a variety of subjects."

Mulbry said the commissioner would see no newspapermen or photographers or answer any questions.

Asked if the conference had been peaceful, Mulbry thought a minute and then said:

"That's something I wouldn't care to comment on. However, there were no lulls in the conversation. He also said no further meeting between MacPhail and Chandler had been arranged or contemplated, and that no date for a talk with Del Webb and Dan Topping, co-owners of the Yanks had been set by Chandler."

Great Horses That Raced Here To Meet

Two horses that have thrilled crowds at the Fayette County Fair today were the favorites in $50,000 Golden West Pace billed as the feature of Saturday's harness race card at Hollywood Park at Inglewood, Calif.

With 13 of the country's top flight pacers slated to face the starter, Jimmy Creed, that raced here two years ago, and Ensign Hanover caught the public fancy. April Star, the 6-year-old gelding owned by R. L. Craig of Urbana, which also has raced here, was rated as the chief contender by many of the experts.

A record high purse of $25,000 awaits the winner.

McKley Kirk's great pacer, Valdo Abbe beat Jimmy Creed when the two met here as three-year-olds. The race, which still is one of the favorite topics among horsemen, overshadowed all others on the day's card. And, so far as the packed grandstand was concerned they were the only horses in the race. Valdo Abbe, incidentally went within half a second of the track record of 2:03 1/4 in turning back Jimmy Creed.

April Star, which was crippled by an accident soon after birth, raced here as a two-year-old.

Cooperation in City Clean-Up Is Very Poor

Public Response Has Been Slow, Reports Indicate

Poor collections and apathetic cooperation on the part of householders and businesses have been the results of the first four days rubbish collections made by the city in connection with the "clean up, paint up and fix up campaign" being conducted by the young business men of the Chamber of Commerce, it was said at the City Hall as the campaign went into its fifth day.

The two city trucks which are making the collections will begin to make collections in the alleys starting Friday. Previously people have been asked to place their rubbish on the curbs, but the response has been so poor that it will now be necessary to go up the alleys, following the plan of past years.

City Manager W. W. Hill has stated that any kind of rubbish which is placed out for the trucks will be collected, including such things as ashes and tin cans, although the pick-up is primarily for rubbish which has collected on lawns and in yards during the winter months.

The trucks have finished their collections in the first ward and will complete pick-ups in the second ward on Saturday. Monday they will begin collections in the third ward and continue through Wednesday there. Fourth ward pick-ups will begin Thursday, May 8 and continue through Saturday, May 10.

Services Held At St. Colman's

Rain Interferes with March To Grotto

The processional and services scheduled for May, the month of Mary, by St. Colman's Catholic Church were held inside the church at 7:30 P. M. Thursday since the rain prevented the use of the grotto constructed by the late Father Thomas E. Fogarty between the church and the rectory.

The processional, which was originally planned to include the adult members of the congregation also, was limited to the children. The climax of the ceremonies was the coronation of the Blessed Mother statue in the May crowning ceremony by Miss Jean Ann Boylan. She was attended by Miss Mary McDonald.

The procession was led by a floral gifts and these were cared for by the pallbearers.

Interment was made in the Washington C. H. Cemetery. The pallbearers were Carl Smith, Damon Baker, Thomas Brown, Arthur Maddux, Walter Weaver and Andy Gidding.

Rainfall Here During April Was Excessive

Total Precipitation Of 7.04 Inches Recorded

Summary of the weather for April completed by U. S. Weather Observer, Chalmers Burns, shows that 7.04 inches of rain fell here during the month.

Normal precipitation for April is 3.90 inches, so that the excess rainfall was 3.14 inches, which compensates for some of the shortage of precipitation earlier this year.

Heaviest rainfall in any 24 hours was on April 20, when around 1.80 inches fell over this area.

While Burns' records are incomplete for the month, temperatures are believed to have been a little below normal for April.

The maximum recorded was 77 degrees on April 21 and a minimum of 28 was recorded April 8 and 28.

Winds generally were from the southwest and west, the records disclose.

As result of the abnormal rainfall in the month, farm work was greatly retarded, although the You're richer than you think—in household possessions. They grow on you.

They mount up on you in value week by week, year by year.

Have you recently—or ever—taken a pad and pencil and added up the value of your furniture and clothes and other things in your home—room by room, closet by closet—shelf by shelf?

Do it, and you'll get the shock of your life. It's usually staggering! All of us, who have houses or apartments, accumulate these things slowly—but we can lose them all mighty fast in a fire.

How much would it cost you to replace everything in your home—and start all over from scratch right now?

PROTECTION IS DIRT-CHEAP

Fire insurance on household possessions costs so little that we are foolish to go on as ludicrously uninsured as most of us are.

You read about plenty of fires these days. You, too, can have a pip of a fire any minute.
